SOUSED IN BLOOD.

QUINTUPLE MURDER AND SUICIDE IN SUMTER.

A Father Kills His Wife, Three Children and Sister-in-law, and then Dashes Out His Own Brains.

Special Dispatch to The Constitution.

AMERICUS, GA., June 4.—Our city was startled this morning by the report of the most horrible and that has ever occurred in this section of the state. On yesterday afternoon a man named Caldwell, living about fourteen miles southwest of Americus, near Davidson's mill,

MURDERED HIS WIFE,

three children and his wife's sister, and then after repeated efforts killed himself. From the appearance of the bodies of the victims and other evidences, it is believed that he killed and their mother, with a smoothing iron. These bodies were found in the house. The body of his sister in-law was found near the corner of the house, and near it the instrument of death in the shape of a grubbing hoe,

THE THREE LITTLE CHILDREN

STREWN WITH BLOOD.

The two older children were at school, one in the field and one little one ran under the house and escaped. After enacting the terrible tragedy, the murderer

JUMPED INTO THE WELL,

but failing to materially injure himself, crawled out and then got on top of the dwelling house and jumped off and was

by two negroes, who had been attracted by his cries as he stood upon the roof shouting and gesticulating. He recovered in a short while, and sent the negroes off after some neighbors, and then went to the gin house and climbed to its loftiest point and threw himself and expired almost instantly. T.

Second Dispatch.

AMERICUS, GA., June 4—Yesterday afternoon at three o'clock, fourteen miles west of here, the negro laborers of John W. Caldwell, a well-to-do farmer forty five years old, saw him waving his hands. They started to the house and met his little girl Emma, five years old, who said, "pa has killed ma." As they arrived at the house, the laborers say, Caldwell jumped to the ground. The blow stunned him, and they took him up and carried him indoors, where they saw Mrs. Caldwell, her sister, Miss Mitchell, and three of the children,

STANDING ON HIS HOUSE TOP,

LYING SIDE BY SIDE,

all bruised by blows from a heavy iron, and gallons of blood puddled about on the floor. The laborers laid Caldwell down and ran. He got up, and following

BEGGED THEM TO KILL HIM.

He then went to the well and jumped in, got out and jumped in again, got out again and went to the gin house, where he

sixteen years old, and told him he had killed all the people at the house, and was going to kill himself. The son dissuaded him, but he climbed to the roof, and producing death instantly. When your reporter reached the scene at 9 o'clock this morning,

A HORRIBLE SPECTACLE

met his view. Caldwell and wife lay on one bed, the three children and Miss Mitchell on another, all with the most ghastly wounds upon their heads and faces.

A HEAVY BAR OF IRON,

a hoe, and a smoothing iron, were the weapons, and were marked with blood and hair. The victims had been killed at various places about the house, and then dragged together in the dining-room by the fiend. The neighbors gathering had placed them on the beds. The floor and yard were marked all over with Caldwell's

FOOT-PRINTS IN BLOOD

The little girl Emma that escaped states that he asked her if she wanted to live, and then told her to run. Many neighbors stated to your reporter that they thought Caldwell

PERFECTLY SANE WHEN HE COMMITTED THE DEED.

His oldest son stated that his father was on the plantation in the forenoon, and at dinner was morose and ate little, stating that he would remain at home in the afternoon. Caldwell had eight children. Three were at school. Those killed are Nancy Alice, aged ten; Robert Homer, aged six, and Lelia, aged two. Mrs. Caldwell was forty, and Miss Mitchell thirty. The latter was killed in the yard while trying to escape being brained with a hoe. All the wounds were on the heads. Neighbors running to the scene saw Caldwell jump from the gin-house. He stated to some negroes to run for Representative Davison, his near neighbor, as

HE HAD "PLAYED HELL,"

but was in his senses. Your reporter learned that he had been aberrated for some time, but neighbors deny this. He was usually a mild, quiet man and a good citizen, in good circumstances. Most of those present thought that was the cause of the tragedy. She has lived with Caldwell twenty years. The family physician thinks different from the neighbors concerning Miss Mitchell. There are five children left, two of whom are nearly grown. Caldwell was a good farmer, highly respected and a church member. It is thought, from statements of little Emma, that Mrs Caldwell was the first victim. The coroner's jury found a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

THE BLESSED RAIN.

A Delayed Refreshment.

It came at one o'clock yesterday morning. The clouds had been acquiring with us all day and we were faint in hope of the blessing they held just over the parched earth, but refused to drop upon it. When night came the lightning played fitfully but at innocent distance. The rain fell somewhere to the north, for the breeze came to us laden with the perfume of its fresh baptism. The clouds marched the complete circuit of the heavens, and sometimes hung over us with just enough hope to make a disappointment. A few scattering drops fell at ten but the stars peeped out as in merriment at the joke and the clouds scampered into the west.

At last they met and began to climb slowly. The whole sky was shut out, and we were glad to see it disappear. Then a few faint drops tinkled on the tin roofs and flecked the stone pavement, then suddenly the great cooling fall came and the thirsty earth seemed to drink as fast as it fell. For forty minutes the rain poured and the air caught a freshness it had not known for weeks. Hundreds of people rose at the glad music and went to the windows to look on the glad sight they had wearily longed for. All during the night there was a canopy of cloud overhead, and it sent down an occasional shower. When the sun rose the streets looked as if they had been swept. Men spoke to each other with brighter faces, and even the children as they skipped to school seemed all the cheerier and lighter hearted because of the rain and the blessings it had left on the quivering leaves and in the sweet morning air.

A Pleasant Jaunt.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. E. C. Peters, Mr W L Jeter, Mr Tom Brock, Mr W H Wimberly and Mr Walter Taylor left on the 3 o'clock train for a pleasant jaunt in the country. They went to Calhoun and thence to the stock farm of Mr Richard Peters, which is four miles distant. They will spend two days enjoying the fresh air and beautiful scenery, and also in admiring the fine stock, for which Mr Peters has made his farm famous. The young men form just such a quintette as will enjoy a rare time, and we hope to hear some rich stories of their trip.

THE GERMAN SENSATION.

Fears of a General Plot—Searching the Socialists—Facts Concerning the Crime.

BERLIN, June 4.—The condition of the emperor is satisfactory. Some of the shots in his arm are not yet extracted. The doctors decided to leave them to work their way out, for fear of causing inflammation. Statements made relative to Dr. Nobeling's confessions are contradictory.

THE SCENE ON SUNDAY.

It seems that after the shooting of the emperor on Sunday, when the enraged populace broke into Nobeling's apartments, he discharged two chambers of a revolver at them. Herr Saltfeur, the innkeeper, was shot and severely wounded. The crowd, seeing the latter bleeding, supposed he was the assassin and with great fury. The unfortunate man was so roughly handled before the people discovered their mistake that his life is despaired of. After his second shot, Nobeling turned his weapon against himself and fired again, the charge taking effect in his head. He was instantly seized and placed in a prison van. As the driver of the van drove rapidly through an arch-way at the entrance of a house, his head struck against the arch with such violence that his neck was dislocated and the man died.

The examination of Nobeling cannot be continued on account of his precarious condition. A letter has been found which shows that Nobeling corresponded with German social democrats in England.

THE ASSASSIN'S REPUTATION.

Dr. Nobeling was known while in Dresden as an inoffensive, quiet and diligent student of highly cultivated manners, but was a pronounced democrat.

The Times' Berlin correspondent says before losing consciousness Nobeling was examined by the public prosecutor and judge of inquiry in the presence of his mother, who had been summoned to identify the prisoner. He admitted that he earnestly sympathized with the ultramontanes and socialists, that and that he, though he had no reason to spare them, he would mention no names just then. He owned that the office of shooting the emperor had

by the drawing of lot, and that he believed it would be to the public interest were the head of the state to be removed. The German public have, therefore, to confront of the existence of a socialist conspiracy to take the emperor's life, in which men of rank and culture are concerned. The town continues in a state of the greatest excitement and affliction. Whether committed by an ultramontane, a socialist or a madman, a point on which reports differ, the crime will produce grave consequences.

THE EMPEROR'S CONDITION.

BERLIN, June 4.—The emperor, William, was able to be removed to another bed to-day. The police have made to the residences of Schapra, Rackow, Most and Aver. editors of the Socialist (Berlin) Free Press, and confiscated various documents. The search is proceeding at Elberfeld for the workman who, on Sunday morning last, stated that an attempt to assassinate the emperor would be made that evening.

Papal Regrets.

ROME, June 4.—Pope Leo has sent a dispatch to the emperor of Germany expressing his regret at the atrocious attempt on the life of his imperial majesty.

IN REGARD TO THE SOCIALISTS.

The pope has directed Cardinal Franchi to dispatch urgent instructions to the Catholic clergy of Germany to use every effort to prevent the spreading of socialism. His holiness has had a conference on the subject with Cardinal Ledochowski, archbishop of Posen, to obtain exact information respecting the socialist party in Germany.

The Train Robbers Captured.

SALT LAKE, June 3.—A party of eleven men from Rawlins, Wyoming, captured the train robbers and overhauled them forty-five miles north of St. Mary's station. There was but little resistance. The only arms in the possession of the robbers were revolvers, while their pursuers were armed with long range rifles. Three shots only were fired. The robbers at first denied their crime; but, influenced by threats and the application of a rope, one of them confessed and pilotted the party to where the watches and money were concealed. This one turned states evidence. He says he and one other came from Cheyenne and the others from Kansas, where they had lately committed a bank robbery.

The Strikers Again.

CINCINNATI, June 4.—Yesterday, about 700 miners, from different mines near Charlestown, West Virginia, captured the steamer Modoc and went to Blacksburg to make the miners there stop work. They threatened to kill or drown every one opposing them. They succeeded in stopping the Blacksburg mines, after which they took possession of a train on the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad and returned, making the train stop where and when they pleased and refusing to pay fare.

Watching Each Other.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—The Russians, described as sailors, and reported as arriving from New York with Baron Steinberg, at the Continental hotel in this city, are engineers, stokers and machinists. They are here to familiarize themselves with the new machinery about to be put into the California. Rear Admiral Jones, of the British legation, who is stopping at the Continental, is reported to be here for the purpose of watching the Russians.

An Irate Socialist.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—At a socialistic meeting in a small hall up town during the evening Steiner, the labor agitator, replied to the remarks of the mayor, who was quoted the other day as saying that though he had no apprehension of danger from any communistic uprising, he wished he had a battery of Gatling guns. Steiner remarked, in the course of his speech, that dynamite would be more powerful than any guns that could be used.

A Bank Mexicanized.

CANTON, PA., June 4.—The banking house of Samuel Doane & Son was entered by three burglars this morning. Doane, who slept in the bank, was seized and compelled to open the vault and then gagged. The robbers only secured $2,500 worth of registered bonds, being driven off by two men lying close by who heard the noise and came to Doane's assistance. One burglar was severely hurt about the head with a club, but escaped with the others.

NASH'S TIGHT SQUEEZE.

A CHAPTER FROM VIRTUOUS REPUBLICAN POLITICS.

Kellogg's Figures and Anderson's Obstinacy—A Fiendish Threat—Calling on Sherman and Hobnobbing with Ex-Governor Hayes.

WASHINGTON, June 4—In the hurry of selecting from the notes of Anderson's testimony Saturday, some interesting points were overlooked by the reporter. The omissions are now supplied. After the introduction of Sherman's letter to Anderson and Weber, the witness went on to testify as follows: "The day after the receipt of that letter I went down to the custom house and met Nash, who was a member of congress from the sixth congressional district, in which East Feliciana is located. Nash came to me and said that the returning board were going to throw him out, and asked why they could not make a case for him if they could make a case for Mr. Hayes. He said that they could make a case equally as good with Mr. Hayes, of course, but that Kellogg was his personal enemy, and of course would beat him. I said: "Nash, now you wait for me a few moments, till I have an interview with Kellogg." He waited a few moments, and I saw Kellogg coming up the steps, and followed him and said: "Governor, what are you going to do in Nash's case?" He said, "Nash is beaten, of course. The majority against him is 6,000." I said: "The majority against Hayes is 10,000." He said: "That is a different thing." I replied, "That may be a different thing in your estimation, but not in mine. Now, I will tell you what you can do. You can either return Nash for the sixth congressional district, or I will burst this whole thing." He was standing on the steps, and I laid my hand on his shoulder and he said: "By God, if you want to put your neck in a halter, you go ahead and do it. I am governor in this state; I control the courts. A word to the wise is sufficient." I said: "Now, Governor Kellogg, if you mean that for a threat it is thrown away. You have got to return Nash." We discussed the matter a few minutes, and he said: "You go and tell Nash to make up a good case in St. Landry, Livingston and Tangipahoe." The witness testified that shortly after his arrival in Washington he went to the president with Dr. Darnell and Mr. Nash.

Question—State what passed there.

Anderson—I had a private letter to the president from a friend of his in Ohio.

Q.—What was his name?

A.—Mr. P. B. Conn, of the Steubenville, Ohio, Herald.

Q.—Were you present at the interview with the president?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What took place there and what was said to you? What statements were made by you, by Mr. Darrell or Mr. Nash?

A.—Dr. Darrell made no statements. He and Mr. Nash urged my consulship, and, after they had made their arguments, Dr. Darrell presented this letter from Mr. Conn. The president read it very carefully, put it in his pocket and made a memorandum, "Please appoint this gentleman to a consulship in a warm climate. This is a special case," and signed it "R. B. H," and I took it over to the state department and filed it there. The witness said he went to the treasury department, but failed to see Mr. Sherman, so I called at his house in the evening, and sent in my card. He came into the parlor and I introduced myself as Mr. Anderson, as he pretended not to recognize me. He sat down on the sofa, and I said: "Mr. Sherman, I came here for a position." He said: "I have got no position for you in my department." I told him I did not expect a position in his department; I wanted it from the state department. "Then," he said, "you had had better call on Mr. Evarts." I told him I had filed my application with Mr. Evarts, and what I wanted him to do was to use his influence to get me the appointment. He replied to that that he neither proposed to use his influence for me in his department nor in any other department, neither in Mr. Evarts' nor in any other department, and just then Gov. Wells, of Louisiana, came in and I took up my hat and left, and I never saw Mr. Sherman since till Saturday.

CROSS-EXAMINED BY REED.

Anderson was examined at great length and severely by Reed, of Maine, who pushed the witness closely, and Mr. McMahon submitted that the witness was entitled to fair consideration. He submitted the proposition to the committee. It was decided that the witness should not be abused by counsel.

Nothing startling was elicited except that the witness said, regarding the former testimony: I told the truth to the senate committee in such a manner that they might be deceived; I told only part of the truth; I testified to certain facts, and let them draw their own conclusions; I confess I wanted to deceive them—don't think that is the same thing as perjury; I know that the committee was misled by what I said.

The sensationalists were disappointed that Butler did not conduct the cross-examination.

ARTFUL STANLEY.

It is understood that Stanley Matthews will demand a senatorial committee to investigate his connection with Anderson. He will decline to appear before the house committee.

ANDERSON SPEAKS.

Most Interesting Testimony.

Special Correspondence of the Louisville Courier Journal.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The Potter investigation committee began its work to-day in earnest. The proceedings were highly interesting, and far more important than had been expected. Anderson panned out the richest kind of a placer, and the trouble and uneasiness evinced by the republican members of the committee showed that they felt the damaging character of the testimony. He is a young man, of fair, ruddy complexion, red hair and mous tache, cool, composed, fluent, evidently highly intelligent, and of an order of morals not much better than the average republican leader, whether in Louisiana, Ohio, New England, or the halls of congress, but he told a straight story, never faltered once, gave facts, dates, surroundings and papers, or ginals or copies, which made his story appear evidently the truth. He laid bare

THE WHOLE CONSPIRACY

by which Louisiana was cheated out of her vote and counted for Hayes. The details he supplied, the corroborative proofs, letters and memoranda hardly made as strong an impression of his veracity on me as the account he gave of himself, first beginning honest, then, under pressure, yielding to perform a certain amount of rascality, baulking at a larger task of deviltry, next resolving to follow in virtuous, now big with the idea of blowing up his carpet-bag compatriots, whom he suspected not only of ingratitude, but of planning his assassination to serve their game of pretending intimidation and violence as a pretext for throwing out the vote of East Feliciana. Next he was indignant on finding that he had been made to appear by forgery to perjure himself and sign a lying protest, which, of course, would devolve all the responsibility on him, then swearing to expose everything, and next negotiating with John Sherman a sale of his connivance with this great crime for a promise of federal office. Next coming out to claim his reward, applying for a consulate, appealing to Sherman and Hayes, and, by showing his fatal papers to Hon. Stanley Matthews, enlisting that gentleman's warmest efforts and sympathies. The jumps from the cotton-fields of East Feliciana to the pure and sacred portals of the New Orleans custom house, then to Washington, then back to Louisiana, then to the white house, or to Cincinnati. Great men appear and disappear, as his narrative progresses. Hayes and Kellogg, Packard and Stanley Matthews, "My Dear Pitkin" and John Sherman and many more saints of the republican party, who have lately warned us of the danger of revolution, unless we shut up forever the Book of Revelations. It was a strange, eventful story, yet with its comic side. I think Ben Butler enjoyed it more than any one else, though he didn't, let on.

Joe Blackburn's manner was perfunctory and unexcited. He had discounted the evidence, and McMahon examined the witness with the same skill he showed on the Belknap trial. The two republican members who seemed to take the matter most to heart were Reed and Hiscock. The whole Louisiana conspiracy is laid bare. Anderson tells Kellogg before the election that the parish will go democratic by 1,600, and there is no helping it. Kellogg tells him, in reply, that the best he can do is to rally the negro vote at two polls and get up rows at the other, so as to have an excuse for throwing them out. The election in East Feliciana is entirely peaceable. No republican tickets are provided by the conspirators. Anderson goes to New Orleans, and is called on by Pitkin to swear to a lying protest. His statement is not enough to justify the rejection of the parish, and so one sufficiently strong is forged and put in as coming from him. He thinks and talks of exposure of this fraud. When the Hon. John Sherman arrives on the scene an interview is planned for the two, and he informs Sherman of the fraud. Sherman, with his strong, impervious will, demands that he shall go on, and promises a full and fair reward. He is to let the protest stand, and all will be made well for him. He yields to the tempter, but insists on a written pledge, and this he gets from Mr. Sherman. He swears to a copy of Sherman's letter. Here came the

PINCH OF THE DAY'S FIGHT.

The republicans, Reed and Hiscock, made a stand that, as the witness did not know Mr. Sherman's handwriting, the copy was not evidence. A long debate arose, Mr. McMahon insisting on offering the copy in evidence and Reed and Hiscock opposing it. Here Mr. Butler made a good suggestion, namely, to call Sherman first, and let him say if he wrote such a letter or not. The democrats, headed by Blackburn, jumped at the suggestion. The republicans winced at it, but had to yield. They saw it would be very dangerous to examine Mr. Sherman on this point, before they knew what better and stronger proof of the contents of the letter might or might not be in existence. Mr. Reed tried hard to find out from Mr. McMahon whether he had any irrefragable proof of the letter, say a photographed copy, and pressed hard to see into McMahon's hand. Mr. Blackburn called attention, very pointedly, to this effort to give a cue to John Sherman how to swear, and Reed had to give it up.

MR. SHERMAN'S ARRIVAL

made a marked sensation. If his party friends expected a square denial of the letter they must have been greatly disappointed. He read the copy of the letter slowly, and was careful to make no positive denial of its origin. He said he did not believe that he had written such a letter; that he had no recollection of it, and this was all. It was a virtual acknowledgment of the charge. Putting this fact and Mr. McMahon's manner together, it would look as if the original letter, or a photographic copy of it, would soon be forthcoming.

The latter parts of Anderson's story was devoted to showing his efforts to get a reward from Hayes and the visiting statesmen. He appealed to Mr. Stanley Matthews, who took his papers and certainly backed him up strongly. Hayes marked his case "special." He told Hayes that the election in his parish was a "cheat," when Hayes at once discovered that he was very busy that afternoon. All this part of the story he fortified by letters, originals and copies. The examination was very protracted, lasting over five hours.

Butler cross-examined the witness, but did not shake his testimony in any essential point. At present he stands unimpeached, but an effort will be made to break him down when the committee reassembles. He made the impression to-day that he was telling the truth, and the testimony in the republican ranks. The cry of "revolution" may be repeated, but it is spent. People can know why the administration and visiting statesmen were so bitter against the investigation. Conscious innocence would have taken the matter easily and challenged the most rigid scrutiny.

A number of prominent gentlemen were present to-day, including Hon. Ben. Hill, Hon. Jno. C. Brown, Mr. John Goode, Hon. Stoddard Johnson and others.

THE FEDERAL FOCUS.

MR. HAYES SIGNS THE FORT BILL.

The Texas Pacific Bill Postponed—Col. Alston Before the Committees—Mr. Hartridge at Work in the House.

THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The president pro tem announced that he had signed the enate bill to repeal the bankrupt law. It now goes to the president for his signature.

On motion of Mr. Conkling, the select committee to consider Mexican relations will sit during the vacation of congress.

The senate meets hereafter at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Matthews, at the suggestion of Mr. Lamar, moved the postponement of the Texas Pacific railroad bill to December, but at the request of Mr. Johnston, who desires to speak on the subject, withdrew the motion.

Mr. Eustis then spoke in behalf of the Brazilian steamship line from New Orleans.

Mr. Bayard, from the finance committee, reported favorably the house bill to remit the duties paid on the bells imported by St. Michael's church of Charleston, South Carolina. Placed on the calendar.

Mr. Randolph, from the committee on military affairs, reported a bill to restore the property known as the state military academy or citadel in Charleston, South Carolina, to the state of South Carolina.

THE POST ROUTE BILL.

The senate proceeded with the consideration of the post route bill, the pending question being on the amendment of Mr. Jones, of Florida, that was reported by the committee on post offices and post roads, in regard to the Brazilian service, so as to have the vessels touch at Pensacola, Florida.

Mr. Eustis, of Louisiana, referred to the subsidies granted the Collins and other lines of steamers since 1845, and said it was mentioned in the contract with them that they should carry mails in return for the aid extended to them. If the views should betake that the trade with Brazil was not of any value; that this country was in a condition to dispense with the trade of the American states, which the European governments now monopolize, then there was no necessity for the passage of this law. But, on the other hand, if profiting by the experience of other governments which have spent large sums of money to increase this trade, a good deal could be said in favor of the measure. He referred to the fact that the legislatures of Pennsylvania and Louisiana, the merchants of Boston, New York and other cities, the New York chamber of commerce, and the postal convention recently in session at Old Point Comfort, had memorialized congress to pass this bill. He believed a strong and united public sentiment in favor of the bill existed in the country from Maine to Texas. The question was whether we would take advantage of other nations which had so far excluded us from the southern trade, merely by subsidizing steamship lines. He spoke of the present line plying between New York and Rio as having no accommodations, and said if we would establish commercial relations with Brazil, we must have streams properly equipped and having such accommodations as will induce Brazilian merchants to visit our country, and our merchants to visit Brazil. He had always advocated the establishment of steamship lines, but when he contemplated the condition of the industrial classes of the county, today he was more in favor of it than ever.

Mr. Maxey, of Texas, argued that by reason of improved machinery, the products of our country had been increased and we must find new markets for our surplus products or we must cease producing. He quoted at length from statistics as to trade between South America, the United States and European countries, and argued that all our industries had increased step by step, except ship building, and that had fallen back. He referred to the policy of England in subsidizing steamship lines, and said wherever England could find a market for her wares, then up went her flag over one of Old England's ships. The wisdom and sagacity of that government always extended a helping hand to trade until the trade was able to help itself. He spoke at length of the productive soil of Texas, and said he proposed to exchange the wheat of that state for the coffee of Brazil. In the language of Jefferson, he should have peace, commerce and honest friendship with these people. He believed that the measure before the senate was in the interest of the people, and hoped the bill would be passed.

The debate took a wide range and without action the senate adjourned.

THE TEXAS PACIFIC BILL.

In the senate to-day Senator Matthews said that pursuant to notice given last Friday he asked that the Texas and Pacific bill be the special order for to-day, but Senator Lamar had advised that he desired to amend the motion or make one in lieu thereof; whereupon the senator from Mississippi said that since that notice had been given the two houses had agreed to adjourn on the 17th instant, leaving less than two weeks for legislative business, and that inasmuch as the bulk of public business remained undisposed of, the friends of the measure, while exceedingly anxious to get it to a vote, did not desire to put themselves in the attitude of obstructing the legislation necessary to carry on the government. He therefore moved that the bill be made the special order for the first Wednesday after the first Monday in December. The friends of the measure are perfectly sanguine that if they could have got it to a vote the bill would have passed by a handsome majority.

HOUSE.

The senate amendments to the legislative and judicial appropriation bill was non-concurred in.

Mr. Knott, from the judiciary committee, reported a bill for the relief of the purchasers of land sold under direct tax in insurrectionary states. Referred to the committe of the whole.

Mr. Hartridge, from the same committee, reported a bill for final settlement of accounts of the United States with certain railroads. Referred to the committee of the whole. It relates to roads which received property from the United States in 1864 and 1865

The bill providing for the election of congressmen from North Carolina on Tuesday after the first Monday in November, passed.

The bill for the appointment of a district judge for the western district of Tennessee and for a division of that district into two divisions passed.

Mr. Hartridge, of Georgia, from the committee on judiciary, reported a bill for the settlement of the accounts of the United States with certain railway companies. Referred to the committee on the whole. It provides for the settlement of the accounts of the United States with such southern railway companies as received property from the United States in 1865 and '66, and for holding terms of the district court at Charlotte, N. C. Passed.

After an eloquent speech by Cox, of New York, in favor of the bill re-organizing the life saving service, the bill passed.

The remainder of the day was consumed in the discussion of the tariff bill. The vote on striking out the enacting clause is to be taken at 12 o'clock to-morrow.

A USEFUL TRIP.

The president leaves for Havre de Grace, to-morrow to inspect the propagation of fish.

THE ARMY BILL.

The senate committee on appropriation has agreed upon the army appropriation bill as amended by the committee. It places the army on the same basis as last year, restoring the reduction in numbers, grades, rank and pay made by the house. It retains the transfer of the Indian bureau from the interior to the war department.

The senate committee on military affairs has also agreed to report a bill providing for the creation of a commission to examine into the proposed reorganization of the army. The commission is to consist of four members of the house committee on military affairs, three members of the senate committee on military affairs and three officers of the army.

The legislative, judicial and executive appropriation bill is in committee conference. The senate made 933 amendments.

ORD'S REPORT.

General Ord reports that the Indians ran cattle from Texas into Mexico at San Phillippi. A company of U. S. cavalry crossed the Rio Grande in pursuit.

A SUNDAY FINE.

The Mineral county, West Virginia, circuit court has fined the Baltimore & Ohio railroad three hundred and fifty dollars for running trains on Sunday.

COOK'S OPEN SLOT.

The further extension of Cook's open slot cotton tie, was argued this morning by Colonel R. A. Alston before the house committee on patents.

THE BILL SIGNED.

The president has signed the bill forbidding the further retirement of legal tenders.

A WAR COUNSEL.

The secretary of war and General Sherman had a consultation to-day over the serious reports of turbulence among the Indians in the far west. The secretary of war stated in the cabinet that the officers represented the situation as serious and that there was danger ahead.

Further advices from McDowell and Howard are waited with much anxiety. No uneasiness is felt regarding the situation on the Rio Grande. General Ord knows the views of the administration and needs no further instructions.

THE COMING CONGRESS.

The Invitation Accepted by all the Powers.

LONDON, June 4.—A Daily News' St. Petersburg dispatch says Lord Beaconsfield's appointment as representative to the congress comes with satisfaction here. There is some fear that the situation at Constantinople will necessitate collective action, as proposed by the Berlin memorandum.

A BETTER FEELING.

LONDON, June 4.—Advices from Constantinople indicate a better state of feeling there and a subsidence of the recent excitement and anxiety.

The successful conclusion of the regulations for the congress has taken a great burden of anxiety from the public mind.

GENERALLY ACCEPTED.

BERLIN, June 4.—All the cabinets have accepted Germany's invitation to the congress.

SELF-GRATULATION.

LONDON, June 4.—The Times in a leading article says the government deserves great credit for the clearness of their views and the firmness with which they have adhered to the principle of a free discussion of the treaty of San Stefano. Their success will have the legitimate effect of enhancing the authority with which this country will enter upon the coming discussion. The Times approves the selection of Lords Beaconsfield and Salisbury, and says it will certainly conduce to the despatch of business and add weight to the conclusions of the congress, and that it is, in spite of some disadvantages, probably on the whole, the best that could have been made.

The Idaho Foundered.

LONDON, June 4.—The press association has a telegram from Liverpool stating that the Williams & Guion steamer Idaho went ashore in a fog near Konigbey lightship on the coast of Ireland, and afterwards foundered. The crew and passengers were saved.

A Lloyd's dispatch from Werford confirms the report that the steamer Idaho went ashore and foundered at 8.30 o'clock on Saturday night, near Konigbey lightship. All on board were saved.

NONE OF THE PROPERTY SAVED.

The Idaho sank in twenty-two minutes after striking the rocks near Galtees island. The captain ordered the boats lowered immediately on the vessel striking, and the women and children were first embarked. None of the property was saved. The captain was the last to leave the vessel. The passengers remained on Galtees island until Sunday morning.

ARRIVAL OF THE PASSENGERS.

A dispatch from Dublin announces the arrival there, at 2 o'clock this a m, of 127 passengers of the steamer Idaho. They spent the remainder of the night at the railway terminus. They are expected to arrive in Liverpool to-night, together with the Idaho's crew.

Brayman's Defense.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—Governor Brayman, of Idaho, telegraphs denying the charge that he furnished ammunition to the Bannock Indians. He also states that war is imminent; that all arms under his control have been issued, and that further supply is coming from Vancouver and Benecia.

A Carolina Fire.

CHARLESTON, June 4.—Half of the business portion of the thriving town of Rock Hill, York county, S. C., was destroyed by fire late last night. Loss, $100,000; insurance, about $60,000.

PARIS PENCILLINGS.

RECORD OF A TRIP TO THE GREAT FRENCH EXPOSITION OF 1878.

The American Colony in Paris Discussing the Fraud Issue and the Potter Resolution—Noyes's Guilty Feeling—Grant's Aspirations.

LETTER VIII.

Editorial Correspondence of The Constitution.

PARIS, May 20, 1878.

There is a very uneasy and disturbed feeling in American circles here, caused by the news, brought to us in very meagre telegrams, of the renewed agitation of the presidential question. As we have here representatives from every state and territory in the union, and most of these representatives are persons who have had to do with political affairs, we have quite a variety of opinions and some considerable manifestations of party feeling. Since Saturday I have heard little else discussed than the Potter resolutions and the Florida confessions.

WHAT WE KNOW.

We have had full files of American papers giving the particulars of the McLin and Dennis revelations. They did not strike any one as at all startling. The average American abroad, you should know, is usually more inclined to be candid and confess to facts that are against him in the matter of politics than he is at home. Here is free from his party associations and party names lose somewhat their local significance. He will admit things to be true that, were he at home, he would "doubt" if he did not deny point blank. Hence one is not astonished to hear republicans, in the face of the Florida revelations, admitting that "of course there were frauds in Florida and Louisiana." The majority of these admissions are accompanied with the further declaration that "supposing there were frauds—the whole question has been settled and let us abide by it." The fact that the electoral commission decided in favor of Hayes is, in their eyes, a sufficient cure for the gross frauds to which Joe Bradley gave the infamous distinction of victory.

The coming of the revelations so shortly after the set-back given to the Blair movement led many to believe that the democrats in congress would not give them great attention. It was supposed that the confessions were launched upon the public in order to keep in view the "fraud" question and to augment the campaign capital of the party. Even the democrats here partook of the same view and so the first flurry was brief and about forgotten when was heard of. This news startled all who heard it. The reputation of Congressman Potter is such that no one thought of calling him a "fire-eater," or a "demagogue." The knowledge that he was to champion the democratic onslaught upon the "frauds" gave to the affair an importance of the highest kind. The republicans agreed that this was a movement that meant business, and a sort of business not at all calculated to make them feel comfortable or to increase their popularity with the true friends of free government. The democrats have had little to say but have watched and waited with feverish interest for the result. When the telegrams announced the breaking of the dead-lock and the passage of the resolution there was among the Americans now here. Opinions upon the subject were freely offered and discussed, and you may well imagine that they were varied in tone and were urged with no small amount of feeling. Everyone is looking anxiously to note the direction of the investigation and to learn whether it is the intention of congress to seek the invalidation of the Hayes title. Should this turn out to be a part of the movement then all manner of disturbances and dire calamities are predicted. In such affairs we are all anxious to be prophets.

GENERAL NOYES ON THE RACK.

One of the most anxious and disturbed persons in Paris is General Noyes, who now, by the grace of Hayes, occupies the post of minister to France. He is in by no means a happy frame of mind, and that he is undergoing agonies of mental torture in view of the Florida revelations is one of the most certain facts of the situation. His friends have vainly attempted to conceal the truth that he is ill at ease. Their efforts only prove that an occasion is felt to have him considered tranquil in spirit. Like all persons who have a secret to hide he fails in those essentials of prudence which would be effectual to his purpose. He will talk about the matter and his mind is invariably drawn to the situation and scene of his actions. I happen to know that he has given the most palpable demonstrations in this line within the past week.

A NOTABLE CONFERENCE.

I am credibly informed that on Saturday a curious and notable conference was held at Noyes' house in the avenue Josephine. It will not be far wrong to denominate the meeting "a council of safety," as the object of the affair was to determine what Noyes ought to do in the present situation. He is restless to say something about the charges brought against him. His friends are anxious to hold him still and to keep his tongue behind his teeth. General Grant is here, and Noyes is one of his special proteges, so to speak. Grant can do more with him and direct his movements more completely than any other person. The conference on Saturday was to lay the question before Grant, in company with Morton, the banker and member of the syndicate, and several other intimate friends of the minister. The result of the matter, as I get it, was the advice to Noyes to hold still and let affairs take their own course for the present. Considering that the investigation would be ordered, it was said that it would be time enough for him to speak when the testimony compromised him in a shape to demand explanation from him. Under this advice, it will follow that Noyes will be silent for the present, and it will be announced (as I know it has already been written), that Noyes "does not deem the charges of such importance and from such sources as to call for any words from him."

Grant, I am told, does not appear to take much stock in the Hayes administration, but as he has a number of friends who are being "taken care of" by it, he makes no public declarations of his feelings. He has said, however, that in his opinion Hayes would remain president until 1880, despite investigations or the clearest proofs of fraud.

THE UNPOPULARITY OF NOYES

with all classes of Americans in Paris is one of the prominent facts that the agitation has developed. It is pronounced and tends to aggravate his soreness of spirit. Upon all sides I hear people saying that they have no sympathy with him personally and that they would not regret at any day to hear of his recall from the mission. He has made no figure at all decent in diplomatic circles and is looked upon as "an accident." In his intercourse with Americans he is not at all pleasing and his manners invite the most uncomplimentary criticism. I know very little about him and have been astonished to hear our countrymen, without regard to party, so roundly denounce him. Upon the other hand Mrs. Noyes is generally liked and it is considered a redeeming grace that she is here in part to relieve the bad repute of her husband. She has a host of friends while he has few who care to be so considered.

THE RECALL OF TORBETT, who has been consul general here, is commented upon most favorably. He, too, has been very obnoxious to all with whom he came in contact. Knowing absolutely nothing of him I cannot say really why he has not made for himself a better name, but I

The Constitution.

ATLANTA GA.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 5, 1878

MR HAYES will discover before the year is out that his southern policy has been his salvation.

THERE is no hope for the country while the visiting statesmen are at large Let us incarcerate the Mexicans.

THERE seems to be a slight coolness between the editor of the Gainesville North Georgian and the editor of the Southron.

JERKED Mexican meat would be a good thing to put on exhibition at the next centennial. We should begin to prepare for the emergency.

U. SIMPSON GRANT is an owner of stock in the bonanza mines of Flood & O'Brien, of California. Nobody knows who gave it to him.

JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG, who got up the scarecrow of Cæsarism a year or two ago, is supposed to be polishing Grant's boots in Paris.

AFTER the election in 1880, Mr. Dana will probably light a five cent cigar, cross his legs and remark to John Swinton: "Oh, fraud! where is thy sting?"

WHEN the southern democracy refuse to join in the movement to unseat Mr. Hayes, the manifold editors of the New York Sun will rise as one man and exclaim that another rebellion is afoot.

THE astounding intelligence is circulated that the Hon. G. Washington Childs, of Philadelphia, a firm friend of Boss Shepherd's "greatest living American," will not cross the ocean this year. At present this seems too bad.

WHY Mr. Schuyler, our unusually able envoy to Constantinople and all the Bulgarias, should be recalled, is something of a mystery to us, unless, indeed, his services are needed in the crisis which has come to the visiting statesmen.

ORVILLE GRANT, who was one of the umbilica of the late administration, confesses that there is a plot among the leading politicians to make Gen. Grant president in 1880. It would appear from this that the visiting statesmen will need a protector.

IMAGINE the stentorian voice of General Natty Banks, in case of civil war, standing upon the hill-tops and ordering his beef wagons to be turned over to the enemy. It would be a scene for a North Carolina poet, as well as a house-painter.

THE sub-investigating committee now on their way to Florida ought to call by Atlanta on their return. Ex-Governor Joseph E. Brown probably has some facts with respect to the frauds in the state of Florida, which would at least be interesting. We are willing to lay a small wager on this.

TECUMSEH SHERMAN remarked that the army prevented war. He knows this by experience. His army prevented war in Georgia by burning and destroying everything within reach. When this able Hun got through with things, the peace he left behind him was most profound. It was the peace of death and desolation.

JUDGE JOHN I. HALL says he won't pretend to disguise the fact that he would like to go to congress, but not unless the people of the whole district expresses a desire to send him. This is the right sort of spirit, and if every other aspirant for congress will manifest a like disposition we shall have that harmony in the democratic ranks which, at this juncture, is so desirable.

WHEN, in a paragraph appearing in yesterday's edition, we wrote, "We are not now discussing but one or two large subjects," we meant no particular assault upon the English language. It was merely our intention to give the public an exceedingly forcible example of what (years ago) Col. Randall, of the Augusta Chronicle, called "the choice Georgia dialect."

THE papers are saying that the Baltimore Gazette needs a new press. This is possible—but there is no denying that it has a new editor. John Cockerill uses his pen as the knights in the olden time used their lances—to stab frauds and spare weak foes. He appears to have discovered that paragraphing is one of the deadly arts.

EDISON, the inventor, has perfected an ear-trumpet whereby a cow can be heard chewing her cud six eighth of a mile away. This is a very serious invention, but it bids fair to give the public an opportunity to hear Mr. Dana's private poet compose his war odes, no matter where he hides himself, and when there are sounds in the air the whole country will know that Mr. Dana has mounted his private velocipede for the purpose of riding down native American fraud.

THE editorial poet of the New York Sun still continues to fire his political odes at the defenseless head of the public. The man who invented the political poet ought to be a much worthier citizen and more highly respected by his neighbors than Edison, who has merely invented a machine which photographs the voice. The political poet is a blessing to any land.

WITH respect to his letter to Anderson, John Sherman's testimony is considerably variegated. He says, in substance, that he is not the author of the letter, but he might have written it, owing to the fact that circumstances over which he had no absolute control probably supervened in order that the country might be redeemed from the unconditional purgatory of democratic rule in which it was about to be plunged Nevertheless, in view of the fact that the country was imperiled, he thought at might have been the case that he did write the letter in question. John is wordy and a deceitful patriot.

THE CONTRACTIONISTS DEMORALIZED.

The supporters of "honest money" are badly demoralized. The vote in the two houses on the bill to forbid the further retirement of greenbacks has taken out all the courage that they possessed. But in their despair they are still given to analysis and speculation, although it brings no ray of comfort to relieve their despondence. The Boston Herald, for example, finds that nine tenths of the support of the Fort bill came from the south and west—that New England was almost solid, and that the middle and Pacific states gave two to one against the bill. The exceeding straightness of the sectional partition is, it says, a significant and very dangerous feature; but it volunteers the opinion that it does not mean blood or the Mexicanization of the country.

"It will be seen," it adds, "that sixty-nine senators have taken their position on this issue. The non-voters numbered seven. We are sorry to say that only one of the absentees, Lamar of Mississippi, can be reckoned as a steady supporter of sound finance. The other six are all silver inflationists of more or less breadth of stripe. Four of them are republicans—Booth, of California, whose position is not doubtful, for he voted with the paper men against the Bayard amendment yesterday, and paired upon the same side in the close division of Monday; Patterson of South Carolina, and Jones and Sharon, the shining silver Senators from Nevada. The democratic absentees were Garland, of Arkansas, and Davis, of West Virginia. If we leave Mr. Sharon, as a chronic absentee, out of the calculation, and reckon the senators by present indications, a full vote of the chamber would show 51 yeas to 24 nays. As for the lower chamber, there is less than nothing to be expected at its hands, for the measure passed the house of representatives on the 29th ult. by the overwhelming vote of 177 yeas to 35 nays. The case is hopeless in every aspect."

A FAMILY AFFAIR.

According to Orville Grant, the able third-termers who inhabit the New York Herald office are about to have their revenge. Grant is again to be a candidate in order to avert the horrors of a civil war. Orville says that before his brother went to Europe a number of republican politicians "of national reputation" held a meeting, in which various journals were represented, the object of this meeting being to provide against what Orville calls "revolution." These politicians and editors, according to Orville, knew that gross frauds had been perpetrated in Louisiana and Florida, and they foresaw that these frauds would be investigated. They thereupon determined to send Grant to Europe in order that the ovations and advertisements he would be sure to receive might have the effect of dazzling the patriots of our own beloved republic. The far seeing men who composed this meeting—(we now proceed to quote from the brother of the great warrior)—"knowing the gigantic frauds perpetrated at the last election in South Carolina, Louisiana, Florida and Oregon, and even New York and Pennsylvania, knowing also the volcano that the country unconsciously slept on, at the time of the deliberations of the electoral commission; knowing Samuel J. Tilden well; knowing him to be the trickiest and most dangerous man on the American continent; knowing that he had at Washington (all statements to the contrary notwithstanding) thousands of his democratic hell-hounds, each secretly armed to the teeth, and ready at a moment's notice, to rise up into an army, at a signal from himself or Pelton, like rebel-bushwhackers as they were, to seize the government, seat Sammy Tilden as president, dictator or emperor, as he or they willed; knowing all this and more, I say," continues the excited Orville, "these men met together, discussed the future of our country and quietly took steps to frustrate Tilden's treason and to maintain peace!"

The foregoing is somewhat astounding, but the following is rather more so. Orville is still speaking: "Knowing full well that after the first stab of the assassin's knife; after recovering consciousness from the first blow of the murderer's bludgeon, the country would rise up to protect herself, and every loyal, law-abiding citizen would grasp the trusty rifle that hung so long over the mantelpiece, and look about him for a patriotic general to lead him into battle, then, and not till then, would U. S. Grant return to his native land, and once again he'd take command and lead the loyal sons of America on to victory. No man on this continent would be so enthusiastically welcomed home in such an emergency as my brother. No man could so speedily or so thoroughly rally about him an army of the boys in blue as General Grant!"

This is terrible, but interesting. It shows the hopes of Grant and his speculative relations, and gives a pretty fair idea of their views. It will be a great blow on this lovely family should a democratic candidate walk in and take the cushion from under the Galena galoot.

IN GENERAL.

—A horse railroad is being built in Rome.

—Pocket-books are worn shorter this season.

—Where there's a will there's a plea of insanity.

—The princess of Wales is considered the best dressed woman in Paris.

—Mrs Nellie Sartoris is with General Grant and Mrs. Grant in Paris.

—Gladstone will stand for Edinburgh at the next parliamentary election.

—Blasius Pistorious, ex-priest and murderer, is to die. It is some satisfaction to reflect that the name will die with him.

—Brother Jasper says he knows enough to keep out of jail, and that's where he's ahead of old Galilieo, at any rate.

—David Redfield, a republican politician of Missouri, has "pronounced" in favor of Grant and Hampton in 1880

—You may chew, you may swallow the clove if you will,
But the scent of your breath is the scent of the still."

—It is stated as a "positive fact" that Madame Di Murska has been thirty-five years old for fourteen years.

—There are 80,000 Jews in New York, or more than ten times as many as in Jerusalem, and their wealth is estimated at twenty millions.

—"Trust not too rashly the man who repays the borrowed V, for he may be playing for a XX."—Lines taken from the interior of an Egyptian pyramid.

—Miss Tabitha A. Holton is the first woman ever admitted to the bar in North Carolina. She is the daughter of a clergyman, and but twenty-two years of age.

—The papal nuncios at Vienna, Paris, Madrid and Lisboa will be called home to Rome, and promoted to the cardinalate at a consistory to be held at the close of June.

—Samuel Townsend, the great Delaware statesman, threatens to take the life of "the catfish-mouthed editor of the tomcat Wilmington Every Evening."

—Peter Cooper proposes that his school at Limestone Springs, South Carolina, shall be made self-sustaining through the revenue to be derived from lime kilns.

—The average democratic opinion in Washington about Key's letter seems to be that the postmaster general was a trifle too near his own bombshell when it exploded.

—So many of the bishops have sailed or are about to sail for Europe that the date of the investigation of the charges against Bishop McCloskry has been indefinitely postponed.

—The famous natural bridge in Virginia, with the grounds surrounding, will soon be sold as the property of Asher W. Harmon, a bankrupt, of Richmond.

—The Catholics have bought 7,000 acres of land in Mecklenburg, Va., on which they are going to establish an industrial farm for educating freedmen. The Benedictine fathers will have charge of the farm.

—Wm. Joseph, of Ackley, La., while drying his head with a towel, rubbed off every spear of hair. Then his eyebrows fell out, and his moustache followed, and finally his whiskers. In one short hour he was totally bald. The cause of this affliction is unaccounted for.

—Senator Sharon has not drawn his pay for nearly a year, so there is quite a snug little sum standing to his credit. Some of his impecunious brother senators, who never have anything coming to them, would be very glad to draw it and spend it for him.

—Earl Beaconsfield is in his seventy-fourth year, Mr, Gladstone is seventy, John Bright is sixty-seven, Earl Granville sixty-three, Bismarck is sixty-three, Gortschakoff eighty, Von Moltke seventy-eight, MacMahon seventy-two and Dufaure seventy-six.

—According to the Chicago Times, there is a poor prospect for keeping Carter Harrison out of the next house. All the republicans in his district will vote for him as a means of punishing the democrats of the next house. They have a lively appreciation of the nature of the affliction, it seems.

—Although the American board of foreign missions is represented in twenty-six countries whose population aggregates more than one hundred millions, the missionary field is by no means fully occupied. The demand for laborers in the vineyard is still large, but there is no money to pay them. An appeal for additional contributions is earnestly made.

—To lend a man "a quarter" politely, requires considerable coolness and self-control. To be slow and ceremonious about it implies distrust; to slap down the coin with a "bang" indicates irritation, while to search all your pockets in succession conveys the impression that you will be left penniless by the transaction. A smiling, quiet promptness marks the gentleman in this crisis.—World.

—A writer in the St. Louis Times declares that the real party aimed at by the Potter investigation is Gen. Grant. The democrats expect to show that the frauds committed were within his knowledge. If this can be done it is supposed the most formidable republican candidate for the presidency in 1880 will be laid upon the shelf.

—Pedestrianism has become fashionable in San Francisco among both men and women. Walking clubs are numerous. The members meet on an appointed day in a suburb, and start off in trips of from five to fifty miles, but the "tramp it" is generally more in fancy than in fact, for carriages are taken along for the tired ones to ride in. Dio Lewis's party of fifty tourists has returned demoralized. They intended to journey and camp in the mountains for three months, but the doctor fell sick at the outset, and two weeks of outdoor life was enough for the rest.

—Springfield Republican: "Gladstone is deficient in the qualities in which Beaconsfield is strong—tact, coolness and self-control. But it is the best head and heart of England that listens and responds when Gladstone speaks. Beaconsfield is, after all, but the cleverest of charlatans. Gladstone is a statesman, of a lower order, indeed, than Bismarck and Cavour and Lincoln in shrewdness and practical force; an orator and scholar, rather than a man of affairs; but second to none in the purity of his aims and the generosity of his sympathies."

—The most venerable couple in Texas, perhaps in the country, are Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, of Mountain City. He is reputed to be 103 and she 102 years old, and they were married in Kentucky eighty-two years ago. Mr. Robinson says he never swore but one oath, has never borrowed but fifty cents, and never gave a note. He and his wife are like children in their devotion to each other, and after any separation shed tears on meeting. Recently they were presented with a comfortable house by a generous neighbor.

—The London World assumes that Colonel Wellesley is the only person ever attached to any foreign embassy in Russia who has acquired the language of the country, whether in one or in six years, except Prince Bismarck, who, when attached in his young days to the Prussian embassy in St. Petersburg, learned Russian in six months sufficiently well to be able to talk it passably and to read Tourgarieff's novels in the original. But then he worked steadily ten hours a day and even took his dictionary to bed with him. Both Mr. Curtin and Mr. Eugene Schuyler, who were secretaries of the American legation in Russia, learned the language well and made good use of the acquisition.

—Attached to John Robinson's circus, that visited Frostburg Monday, is a vicious elephant, weighing eighty six hundred pounds, that has already killed two colored men, his keepers. Going through the tollgate west of Frostburg, Tuesday morning, the elephant was slightly refractory, and was prodded by his keeper, a stalwart colored man from South Carolina. At a watering trough, some distance further on, he again became troublesome, and his keeper, who was walking beside him, again punched him with the goad, whereupon the elephant turned, and, with an angry snort, with his trunk lifted the keeper and dashed him lengthwise, and, with the greatest precision, into the watering trough. The man was only ducked and slightly bruised.—Cumberland (Md.) News, May 23.

[Motto for our correspondents—Be brief; be brief; ever more be brief.—EDITORS CONSTITUTION.]

THE HISTORY OF GEORGIA.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: Allow me through your columns to thank Col Jones for the interest he is manifesting in the unwritten history of Georgia. We are sadly in need of a history of Georgia, and if I am in order I hereby nominate Col. Jones to write it. Years ago the state of Georgia sent the late Col. C. W. Howard to England to transcribe her colonial history; the manuscript is now at the capitol (and Col. Howard told the writer some time before his death) very much mutilated. He had it at his home at Kingston when Sherman passed, and one of his officers learning this fact after he had passed the village, went back and searched for it, but thanks to his good wife it was not found and was returned safely to the archives of the capitol. It was Mr. Howard's intention to write a history of the state, but owing to the confusion following the surrender, never did it. Let Col. Jones revise McCullough's history, with such addenda as his good judgment may dictate, and supply a want much needed by Georgians.

COLUMBIA.

PENSION FOR THE OLD SOLDIERS.

MARIETTA, GA., May 30th, 1878.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: I have just finished reading Mr. Key's letter addressed to the southern people, and in speaking of the Potter resolution, and what it portends, he says, "therefore, the duty of the southern people, to afford crowning evidence of their renewed devotion to the union, in which they now enjoy every right of citizenship, and are subject only to restrictions laid upon every citizen." Well, that is good, that is cheering. Now I suppose he has expressed the opinion of the cabinet on that point; am I right in such a conclusion?—and if so, will not the bill to pension the soldiers of the Blackhawk and Creek wars, and the Mexican veterans, become a law, but in case it does not? Why will it not, if the bill is defeated? Can Mr. Key tell the surviving soldiers of these wars why it is that they are denied the benefits of this time honored custom of the government? This is what the old soldiers want to know. T. A. B.

The North and South Railroad.

Columbus Times.

A few days ago the public were informed that a committee was at work canvassing for subscriptions to the fund required for the purchase of the North and South railroad. When we last made note of the status of the road $32,000 out of $40,500 had been raised. Yesterday the subscribers to the fund held a meeting.

The committee on canvassing for subscriptions reported that the entire fund, save eighteen hundred dollars, had been raised, estimating $3,000 of the subscriptions as reliable, which had been promised, but was not absolutely certain. The subscribers at once voted the deficit of $1,800, and now the $40,500 has been raised provided the subscribers to the above mentioned three thousand dollars make their promise certain. There is little doubt but what they will do this. In a very few days the subscription will be in such a condition that the subscribers can send in a bid to the present board of purchasers pursuant to their invitation as published. We look upon the extension of the road now as an assured fact. All that has been needed is this $40,500, and that may now be said to have been raised, and that too by men who mean business, as is fully attested by the promptness and liberality with which the money has been subscribed. The desired end seems to have been reached and as this news goes abroad this morning a feeling of gratification will pervade our entire community. Here is a road in which Columbus has $200,000, which has only been waiting a move on the part of some one that it might become a source of profit and a benefit to the entire city.

At one time it seemed that the property was to be lost entirely. The sale by the state last year put it in a condition for Columbus to save it, but even then a rich and powerful corporation threatened to gobble it up. This was prevented by the shrewdness and activity of a citizen who realized the value of the road to the city. Through his efforts, aided by others equally active, the road is now about to pass into the hands of the business men of Columbus—men who will use it for Columbus. As insignificant as the road has appeared it will yet prove our salvation. The work of extension will shortly begin. Before fall it will have reached Hamilton. Before another fall it will have reached the Atlanta and West Point road. The gauge will then be widened and we will at last have an outlet to the world by a competitive line of road. What then? Freights will go down, trade will consequently increase, population will flow in and Columbus will begin an upward march. She now has more "backbone" to build on than any city in the south. Give her this road and the development will surely follow.

Let every citizen, who has the love of the city at heart, speed this good work. All honor to those who have so diligently worked to bring about the present favorable outlook for the road. May they find encouragement and substantial aid on all sides.

CURIOUS NEW YORK CHARACTERS.

Mrs. Tom-Ri-Jon, Journalist, and the Sparrow Philosopher.

Correspondence Springfield Republican.

Whoever has been here lately has seen a queerly dressed person, whether man or woman it would be hard to tell—a person with a semi-Turkish garb and an old straw hat, perambulating the sidewalks near the post office and Astor house, selling papers to anybody who will buy. This famous person is Tom-Ri-Jon, a very harmless sort of creature of the Mary Walker species, though she has a husband and makes a newspaper, "the sassiest paper in the world." She strolls, slowly and pleasantly, with a smile almost always on a face that is far from repulsive, and sometimes boys and men collect around her, greatly to the annoyance of the rector of St. Paul's church, who got her arrested the other day as a disturber of the peace. There was no proof that she had disturbed anybody's peace but that of the incensed rector and the judge let her off. Two or three weeks ago she was arrested on some frivolous charge and committed for for want of bail, which Dr. Logan, a visitor in the city, promptly paid for her. Her paper is full of crudities, with glimmerings of sense in paragraphs of nonsense and rubbish. But it is one of the curious tendencies of modern city life to develop this sort of eccentricity. A very interesting chapter might be written on the eccentric characters of New York, chief of whom is George Francis Train, who has abstained from meat for years and has taken Turkish baths enough to have reduced an ordinary man to perspiration, if not to have dissolved him into an impalpable mist. I saw him lately, looking as self-absorbed and intense as ever, his head full of splendid conceits and crochets, his talk a continuous flow of brilliant, startling, shocking, absurd, revolutionary, quaint, irreverent sayings. He seems to be a human locomotive without brake or stop-cock. He watched the sparrows on the green and the pigeons that circled over the park; he followed the children with his eager eyes and seemed to prime after them, himself a big, overgrown boy. An inexpressible sadness came into his face sometimes, and then it was tender and sweet as a woman's. One cannot help feeling a deep sympathy for the man, who with more poise and steadiness of nature, with a mental equilibrium which he has either lost or been denied, perhaps with better regulated nerve gauges, might be one of the ablest and most brilliant men of the age. It is a terrible reflection on our medical science that it has found no way of restoring such a man to the world and to himself.

WHEN THE GRASS GROWS.

Hostile Demonstrations of the Indians.

CHICAGO, JUNE 5.—Under date of April 13th, Major Guido Illges, commanding the 7th infantry at Fort Benton, informs the military headquarters here that the hostile Sioux, Arapahoes, Cheyennes and other Indians had assembled at the eastern corner of Cypress mountain, known as "Sitting Bull's camp," and contemplated an early invasion south of the boundary line. Major Illges considers the situation as serious. Two thousand warriors in that region fully armed and equipped, defiant and ready for a fight, have caused him to move his forts to a new place better fitted for defense. Sitting Bull recently made a rancorous harrangue, promising to return to the United States when the grass grows and make the soldiers weep. A grand war dance and mustering of the various tribes followed this speech.

Three Drowned.

BOSTON, June 4.—A sail boa was capsized off Thompson's island. There were 8 aboard, and 3 were drowned.

The Four Per Cent Mexicanization.

Detroit Free Press.

The clap-trap of the republican party over the electoral fraud investigation has no effect upon the capitalists of the country, as is clearly shown by the subscriptions to the four per cent bonds. From Saturday until Wednesday inclusive subscriptions reached nearly $2 100,000—an average of $500,000 per day. On one day the subscriptions were nearly one million, and on another about three quarters of a million. A country which was in the remotest danger of Mexicanization—not to speak of one being in imminent danger of the process—could not very well sell four per cents, either at home or abroad, in any quantity at par with gold. The journals and men who hold that an investigation into frauds can not be made without Mexicanizing the country are doing what they can to unsettle confidence and disturb business; but the large majority of the people laugh at them, which is by all odds the best way of treating their ridiculous assumptions.

Discrimination in Hanging.

New York Evening Post.

The Herald pleads strongly for a pardon for Mrs. Sothern of Georgia and for a commutation of the punishment of the Rev. Blasius Pistorius of Pennsylvania. These persons are under sentence of death for murder. Our contemporary no doubt represents a widespread feeling when it expresses a hope that justice may be satisfied "without the public execution of a minister of the gospel." The hanging of a priest or a woman is certainly an unpleasant spectacle; but our contemporary might well go a little further and admit that the hanging of anybody is an unpleasant spectacle. There is really no reason why a priest or a woman should not be hanged as readily as any other persons, supposing their guilt to be equal. We say nothing of the circumstances in the Herald's particular cases; but we object to discrimination in hanging on false and sentimental grounds.

Mr. Stephens a Granitte.

Speights' Daily Newspaper.

We can not conceive anything more foolish, more false, more treacherous than Mr. Stephens's position. So far as he can go he lifts his voice to strengthen the conspirators who have marched on the ballot boxes and seized legislative halls and trampled the law of the land under foot. So far as this withered old man can do it, he has invited the very rancor he deprecates, and has bespoken the defeat of the party to which he professes to belong. So far as vindictiveness and untruthful accusation of innocent men can go, this man has gone, with wounded vanity for the prompting, and insolent malice for the argument. The democratic party will from henceforth know this skeleton closeted with republican wrong-doers and let the recreant Grantite go.

Serpent or Toad?

New York Mercury.

Alexander H. Stephens, speaking of any attempt to unseat the federal executive, says: "All soft words instilling into the mind of the people of this country such an idea are as delusive and as guileful as the whisperings of the great arch fiend in the shape of a toad in the ears of Eve, from which sprung all our woes." Did our "woes" spring from tempting words? were the "whisperings" in the shape of the toad? He is not explicit in his English. But was the "great arch fiend" a toad? Moses and the English translators call Eve's tempter a serpent. Dr. Adam Clarke guesses that he was an orang-outang; but no one but the distinguished Georgian has ever reduced his satanic majesty to a contemptible toad! It must have been a long time since Alexander read the first chapter of Genesis.

Good as a Mint Julep.

Rochester Express.

When the Atlanta CONSTITUTION says that "the only real democratic humorist in the country writes for the Keokuk Constitution," its modesty leaves us to add that the Atlanta CONSTITUTION is another. These two papers are refreshing to the constitution of the appreciative reader as a mint julep when the thermometer registers 114 in the shade.

Fair Play Demanded.

Vicksburg Herald.

The northern democrat seems to think that the only political business the southern democrats should engage in, is to be quiet and vote for northern democrats at every national election. In our opinion, this will not answer in the south much longer.

The Luck of East Tennessee.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD!

NEARLY ALL BAKING POWDERS ARE ADULTERATED.

The wily manufacturers of these spurious compounds claim that adulteration is necessary to the preservation of the product. Don't you believe a word of this. On the contrary, the good qualities of any Baking Powder are lessened and the injurious elements increased just in proportion to the adulteration.

SEA FOAM IS ABSOLUTELY PURE and has double the strength of any other yeast or baking powder. It possesses none of the bad qualities of any of these preparations, but is an entirely new invention and contains no ingredient or element which can produce an injurious effect. On the contrary, it has in itself a tendency to sustain life and strengthen the human system.

BREAD is one of the most important articles of food, and one that enters into the daily consumption of all classes of people—the poor as well as the rich. Nothing is a more potent cause of indigestion and dyspepsia than heavy, sodden bread. A prominent dealer in patent medicines assures us that the sale of a single dyspepsia cure EXCEEDS $750,000 per year; and every physician in the land will testify to the general prevalence of this distressing disease. Light, well-raised bread, biscuit, and cakes digest readily, and conduce to good health. Good health makes labor of all kinds easier, and PROLONGS LIFE.

SEA FOAM NEVER FAILS TO MAKE LIGHT BREAD. It is warranted to make better, lighter, sweeter, healthier, more nutritious, and more readily digested bread, biscuit, cakes, puddings, etc., than can be made in any other way.

Again, flour varies in quality, a fact which adds greatly to the perplexing difficulties with which the housekeeper has to contend in the attempt to produce good bread by the use of yeast cake, saleratus, or the common baking powders and bread preparations. If too much of any of these articles is used, the bread has a sour or rank, bitter taste, or is heavy and soggy, unpalatable, and indigestible. With the use of Sea Foam these difficulties are obviated, for even with second quality flour better cookery can be made than the best of flour will make with any of the other stuffs.

ECONOMY is another point worthy of consideration in these hard times, when almost every one has a struggle to make both ends meet. The economy of Sea Foam is really wonderful. One can of it is worth three of any other baking compound.

SEA FOAM SAVES TIME and MONEY. It saves time because very little kneading is required, and no delay is necessary for the dough to raise; but it can be baked in a hot, quick oven as soon as mixed. IT SAVES MONEY, because in three months' use of it the saving in milk, eggs, and other ingredients will more than pay its cost; and then it will make

from a barrel of flour than can otherwise be made.

SEA FOAM IS UNIVERSALLY COMMENDED.
In proof of this statement read the following:

—On Saturday, the dwelling house of Mr. George Lumpkin, near Lexington, was entirely destroyed by fire. Nothing saved but a piano and wardbrobe. This is the third time Mr. L. has been burnt out since the war. The fire originated in the stove room.

—Gainesville North Georgian: A gold mine of no mean quality has been discovered on the place of Benjamin Clark, just outside the city limits. We hope work will be commenced there soon, and that plenty of the precious metal may be taken out.

—Keokuk (Iowa) Constitution: Will Trimble, of the Hardin house billiard parlors, has been marching through Georgia, and while at Atlanta visited the gold mines near that city, and brought home with him a large number of fine quartz specimens, which he has at his rooms. Some of them are very rich in the precious metal, while others do not pan out so well.

—William Craft, of Bryan county, Ga., is sueing the house of Naylor & Co., of Boston, Mass., for libel, laying his damages at $10 000. The alleged libel consists in a publication which Naylor & Co., made about Craft and his negro school in Georgia. Craft had secured money in Boston to buy a large farm in Georgia, on which he proposed to establish a tree school for the benefit of his race, and Naylor & Co., upon the strength of information received, published that he was a fraud and was devoting the money to his own use.

—Augusta Chronicle: The many sales of Georgia state 7 per cent bonds at 109 to 110 and Georgia 6 per cent bonds at 102, show how highly our state bonds are rated in the financial markets north and south. The large number of Georgia railroad 6 per cent bonds bought for northern orders (over $150,000) show that northern capitalists are looking for strong investments. Two large orders for capitalists were filled for Georgia railroad 6 per cent bonds last week, and at full rates; sales made at 97½. An order for Augusta bonds from a Baltimore capitalist was filled last week at full prices. This demonstrates that our securities are being sought after away from home.

—Washington Gazette: Some weeks ago a short article appeared in THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION recommending that a convention of the library associations of this state be held, for the purpose of discussing matters relating to library management. As to the propriety and usefulness of such a movement there is no question. It would undoubtedly increase the interest in, and bring about a closer union of these noble institutions and perhaps benefit them in a pecuniary way. Therefore we are in for a convention most heartily. If some of the leading associations of the state would once start the movement we have no doubt they would be endorsed by our own library and all others in the state. Suppose the Atlanta library starts the ball.

—Elberton Gazette: Colonel P. P. Dickinson having visited Elberton last week for that purpose, all the necessary documents were signed, sealed and delivered for the purpose of carrying out contracts for finishing up the railroad. While here, Colonel Dickinson contracted with Captain W. A. Potts for dressing up the road bed, laying the cross-ties and iron, etc., the work to be completed by the 10th of September. Captain Potts has already commenced work at Toccoa. The iron will commence to drop at Toccoa this week, and one of the engines will be there in a few days. Captain Potts says after everything is in trim for the work of laying the iron he will put it down at the rate of one mile per day. Besides the two engines already purchased, there are to be two passenger coaches, ten box cars and ten open cars, all of first-class work and finish. The locomotives are said to be beautiful. Two saw mills are steadily at work getting out ties, and with the force of axes at work there is now no danger of delay.

—Speaking of Atlanta, the Arkansas Free Press says: There are a great many beautiful forest trees scattered though the city, which the inhabitants have had the good taste to preserve. The soil seems peculiarly adapted to the growth of small fruits and flowers which are seen here in the greatest perfection. Grapes are considered an almost certain crop, and strawberries are very fine and abundant. Even greens seem to grow almost spontaneously, and seeing the number of "box" hedges, large and dwarf, one might suppose that it was a government regulation that all ornamental hedges must be made of that plant. The magnolia and olive trees grow freely, and there are, also a few almond trees, but they are said not to perfect their fruit. The market here is supplied with vegetables of all descriptions, as well as fruits in abundance. I see for sale fine large cabbage solid heads, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, beans, peas, oranges, lemons, pine apples, cocoanuts, etc. Atlanta is said to have a population of thirty-five thousand, and, as a business place, it shows no evidence of hard times; there is, on the contrary, an air of activity and prosperity about it that is in marked contrast with many other places that I have seen. The city may be called a city of churches. There are more and finer church edifices to the number of the population than any other place with which I am acquainted. The leading denomination is the Methodist, and this plucky city has, within six weeks, entertained the international Sunday school convention, and also, the general conference of the M. E. church south, with a princely hospitality. Considering that the place has been mainly built up within the last seven years, the number of fine palatial residences, with very beautifully arranged grounds surrounding them, is a matter of surprise, and improvements are going on as if such a thing as hard times was unknown here.

THE

Tate Epsom Spring,

BY THOMAS TOMLINSON.

THIS watering place, well known as furnishing the best medicinal water in the United States, is now ready for the reception of visitors, and will be kept in the best style during the entire season. The curative and restorative results from even a short and limited use of this water have been so signally illustrated in the past, and experienced by such large numbers of persons residing in every section of the country, that it is deemed unnecessary to present any elaborate exposition or commendation of its singular and wonderful qualities. Personal experience is a more reliable and satisfactory test than any chemical analysis, and thus tried, it has been found without an equal. A correct analysis, however, will be furnished to those who desire it. Thousands have come to this Spring for relief, and but few have gone away without finding it.

No effort to please will be omitted, and every diligence will be used to promote the health, the comfort and pleasure of visitors.

The terms of the house will be made satisfactory.

Morristown, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad is the nearest railway station, and conveyances running to the Spring connect regularly with all trains.

For full and reliable information as to all matters of detail, address the proprietor, Tate Epsom Spring, East Tennessee, and prompt answers, accompanied by circular, will always be received.

ROWLAND SPRINGS HYGIENIC INSTITUTE,

Open for Invalid and Hygienic Boarders.

The only Institute South superintended by a regularly qualified Hygieic Physician. It is not a summer resort for the gay and fashionable world—but a place where the sick may, at any and all times of the year, depend upon quiet, rest and home-like surroundings. Neither is it (as erroneously applied and often understood by Hygienic) a Gas Bath establishment proposing to cure all diseases by inducing excessive action of one organ—the Skin, but a place where all real remedial appliances are judiciously employed as aids in restoring all the vital organs to perform normal functions. All enervating and debilitating processes as well as medical drug poisons are positively excluded in the treatment of the sick.

Patients afflicted with Acute diseases or suffering from Old Standing Chronic Complaints, of every description, may rely upon SCIENTIFIC TREATMENT and SPEEDY RESTORATION, Hundreds of invalids, after being drugged and dosed almost to death—and given up as incurable by the drugopathic professions—have been speedily and completely restored to health.

Home Prescriptions. Many persons unable to leave family or business, can, by a little knowledge of treatment, be restored to health at home by description and advice forwarded on receipt of full description of symptoms and duration of disease. Prescription fee $5 00. For circulars and further information address

Important to Parents and Guardians

MOUNT DE CHANTAL

Academy of the Visitation

NEAR WHEELING, WEST VIRGINIA.

PARENTS in quest of a first class school for their daughters, will do well to investigate the claims of the celebrated Academy. For thoroughness in every department of female education, Mt. de Chantal ranks pre-eminently high. Great attention is given to perfect the pupils in writing and speaking French with fluency. For those sufficiently advanced, it is the language of their recreation hours. The purity of accent and correctness of pronunciation acquired in this Institution have been a subject of surprise to thy native Parisian. The renown for the superiority in music is so wide spread as to have made the Academy almost a national one. One feature, in particular, that should recommend Mt. de Chantal to the sensible parent, is the influence exercised to form the pupils to views and habits of economy, and to render them really practical and useful women of society in after years. Simplicity in dress is enforced by rule.

These facts, united to the exceedingly moderate rates of board and tuition ($200 per annum), will we trust, secure to this school as large and desirable a patronage in the future as it has enjoyed in the past.

For further particulars apply for a prospectus to the Directress of Mount de Chantal Academy of the Visitation, near Wheeling, West Virginia.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 1st, 1878.

Extract from Minutes Atlanta Cotton Exchange.

RESOLVED, In view of the great loss and inconvenience arising in handling Cotton baled in light flimsy Gunny Bagging, such as has been sold in this market for two years past, the Cotton Trade of Atlanta earnestly request all planters to stop the use of said Bagging, and bale their Cotton with heavy substantial stuff; we especially urge this, knowing that to bale Cotton in heavy Bagging, works no loss or hardships on the Planter, but on the contrary is profitable to him

We hereby pledge ourselves, that, if we find at the opening of another season parties continuing to bale their Cotton in this flimsey worthless stuff, to demand an allowance of one dollar on every bale so covered, reserving to ourselves, however, the right to totally reject.

We also earnestly request Planters to avoid the use of what is known as Straw Bagging, as such Bagging stains and discolors Cotton when the bales become wet. Exporters and Spinners, in all directions are complaining bitterly of this Bagging, and threaten next year to reject entirely Cotton covered with this material.

We therefore, resolve to reserve the right to reject Cotton packed in this Bagging.

Secretary Atlanta Cotton Exchange.

The wedding took place at 12 m, and was performed upon the extreme point, and is said by those who had the pleasure of witnessing it, to have been one of the most delightful and impressive ceremonies they have ever attended.—Chattanooga Times, June 3d.

FOURTH OF JULY.

Preliminary Arrangements for its Celebration.

Among all classes of business men there seems to be awaking an interest in the proper celebration of the fourth of July in our city. The general plan to have on that day some series of attractions which will draw to Atlanta will, if properly carried out, result in great commercial benefit, and also aid in an impressive celebration of the day.

Already there are arrangements for some very fine races at the park on that day, and these alone will attract many visitors. It is proposed to have a grand also, to which companies from every city in Georgia will be invited, with liberal prizes for their competition.

There will be this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Hook and Ladder hall a meeting of all those interested in arranging for this feature in the programme for the day. A full attendance is desired as it is important that some action should be taken at once, if at all.

If the right sort of men will take hold of these preparations they will make the coming Fourth a big time in Atlanta.

The Dallas Murderer Caught.

Yesterday morning at an early hour Patrolman Pines of the police force succeeded in arresting Jonas Gresham, the negro who created such a sensation in Dallas, Paulding county, a few days ago, by trying to kill Dr. Robinson and certain members of the faculty with a knife. Officer Pines, while on duty on Decatur street, saw the object of his search standing near the Willingham building.

THE NEGRO WAS HAND-CUFFED

and carried to the station house where he was closely confined in a cell. Several residents of Dallas, who have been in the city for the past two days, took charge of the prisoner soon after he had been captured. At first he denied that his name was Gresham and claimed that he did not live in Dallas. The sight of the residents of Dallas changed his mind however upon this subject, and he finally admitted that he did live there and that he had been engaged in a difficulty with Dr. Robinson, but that he did not cut him. The statements made by him to Capt. White, of the force,

DIFFERED ENTIRELY

with those made to Officer Pitts and the gentlemen from Paulding. The negro was securely tied and carried to the Western and Atlantic railroad passenger train yesterday morning. By this train he left for Dallas, under the care of four or five determined men who will see that he does not effect his escape. The negro Gresham used to live in this city, and has for many years made his headquarters at that notorious negro den under the Willingham building, which he is the appropriate name of the

HOLE IN THE GROUND

He has a number of relatives in this city, and it is thought that he came here with a view of getting money from them to assist him in making an escape from the state.

Fulton Superior Court.

HON. GEORGE HILLYER, JUDGE PRESIDING.

The superior court of Fulton county met at the usual hour yesterday morning, and transacted the following business during the day's session.

Case of S M Hurt et al vs J H James and J B Langley. Demurrer sustained and the bill dismissed.

Cotton States Life Insurance company vs W J Magill. Foreclosure of mortgage on land.

The same vs the same attachment on different demand, but levied on same land. By the consent of the court and a mutual agreement of the attorney the cases were tried together. Verdict for plaintiff against the defendant for $2,550 with interest from November, 1876.

Same vs same attachment. Verdict for plaintiff for $600.

The case of the State vs the Scofield Rolling Mill company was taken up for trial. In this case about sixty thousand dollars is involved. It is a suit brought by the state of Georgia against the Scofield rolling mill for railroad iron which it is claimed the state paid for and never received. The case is a very important one and will in all probability require the attention of the court for two or three days. It was just opened yesterday afternoon, and Mr Martin Dooly was on the stand telling what he knew about the transaction.

Court will meet at the usual hour this morning.

The City Court.

HON. RICHARD H. CLARK, PRESIDING.

The city court of Atlanta opened up at the usual hour.

Yesterday morning a few unimportant cases were tried, such as negroes charged with committing petty larcenies, after which the court adjourned to meet this morning at the usual hour.

To-day the civil docket will be called and an effort will be made to make disposition of several cases.

Justice's Court.

Justice Henry Tanner held court again yesterday in the recorder's court room. Several cases of vagrancy were tried and disposed of. They were as follows:

Perry Garner, colored, charged with vagrancy. Sent to jail, having failed to give bond.

Belle Morse was tried for the same offense. She was committed to jail in default of bail.

Nannie Frazier, on the same charge, was walked off to jail in default of bail.

Bob Stevenson was tried for keeping a disorderly house. He was required to give bail to answer trial in the city court.

The vagrant law will be pushed to its fullest extent by our police force.

In connection with the above we publish the following communication from Commissioner Dodd:

EDITORS CONSTITUTION—In your Sunday's issue mention was made of a negro boy snatching a purse from a lady's hand on the street. Your reporter calls loudly on the police force, and especially on the police commissioners, to try the vagrant law on these characters as a prevention against further occurrences of this kind. He must be but poorly informed or posted if he is not yet aware that ten arrests of these vagrant negroes were made last week and tried before Justice Tanner, four of whom are now in jail.

The community may rest assured that the police authorities will leave no stone unturned so far as it lays in their power to bring these vagabonds to their punishment. G. T. DODD, Chairman B. P. C.

Annual Election.

The Young Men's Christian association elected the following officers on Monday evening for the ensuing year: Walter B Brown, president; J P Field, first vice president; John H Stewart, second vice president; Wm A Heygood, third vice president; Dr O R Ford, recording secretary; H L Collier, corresponding secretary; C G Eckford, treasurer. C L Margum, C M D Brown and Frank H Peck, together with the foregoing officers, constitute the board of directors.

We learn that the association was never in a more flourishing condition than at present. Its membership numbers many of the best young men in the city and they are all apparently zealous and determined to push the interests of their organization. The officers, as will be seen, are from among our best young men. Many of them have been active in the association since its organization here, and are capable of keeping it up to the high standard to which they have raised it.

Col. George S. Thomas.

The gentlemen whose name is given above has recently sent in his resignation as assistant attorney general, a position which he has filled with marked ability for the past six years. In doing so he has the assurance of Attorney General Devens, of the United States, that his services were appreciated, and that it is with regret that his resignation is received. Colonel Thomas does not resign for the purpose of severing his connection with our city, but will remain here and will practice law. He has many warm friends in Atlanta who will rally to his support and give him a handsome patronage.

NORTH GEORGIA STOCK AND FAIR ASSOCIATION.

The Man Best Qualified for the Position of Secretary.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: A great deal has appeared in the CONSTITUTION about only one of the candidates, and many reasons advanced why he should receive the appointment of secretary, but all of these suggestions have come from those who do not hold any stock in the association, and consequently cannot have that interest in its welfare that the stockholders do.

I have no "axe to grind" beyond wishing to see a man appointed secretary who will be a credit to the society, from his ability, his knowledge and active interest in such matters, and preeminently among the candidates mentioned, stands Mr. R. H. Knapp, of the well known firm of Mess. Wm. McNaught & Co. He was among the very first to organize the association, has acted as secretary from the first meeting, and did not wait until his name was brought forward for the office of secretary before taking stock, but subscribed liberally the moment the books were opened.

He is well known as a breeder of thoroughbred cattle, hogs and fowls, having won several valuable premiums at our state fairs, and has, with the exception of Col. Peters, made more successful exhibits than any member of the association.

As Col. Malcolm Johnson, the efficient secretary of the state agricultural society, can testify, there is no young man in the community who has taken as much interest and done so much toward making the fairs a success as Mr. Knapp. It is to be hoped that in this organization no "rings" will be formed for the benefit of the few to the detriment of the many, that no such failure as has overtaken our cotton factory will occur here, and to effect this we must have in office men whose sole interest is the success of this association, and not the advancement of some other enterprise, using the association as a lever.

Now it remains with the board of directors whether they will appoint a man like Mr. Knapp, who has put his shoulder to the wheel from the first, or one whose interest has only now been aroused when the emoluments of office loom in sight. A STOCKHOLDER.

The Right Man for the Right Place.

We notice that Mr. B. W. Wrenn is mentioned as a candidate for the secretaryship of the North Georgia Fair association. East Tennessee has a lively interest in this association, as she intends to pour her wealth of farm products, stock, etc., into the fall exhibition. As an east Tennessee paper, we heartily endorse the nomination of Mr. Wrenn. He is the man for the place, and it will fit him like a glove. He is the best advertiser in America. He is a leading power among passenger agents, and can do more than anyone else to secure low rates and proper accommodations. His present official position will admit of his traveling over all railroads in the United States free. Wrenn is the man of all others, and we shall hail his election with joy. It will go very far towards ensuring a perfectionly successful fair this fall.—Chattanooga, Tenn., Times.

The Concordia Entertainment.

Notwithstanding the extreme heat of Monday night, and the threatening weather, Concordia hall was crowded to overflowing by an audience of our musical people who were highly delighted and pleased with the gems of music as rendered by the select and chosen artists whose names appeared upon the programme. The concert was given for the benefit of the organ fund of the Jewish synagogue.

The programme opened with a quartette by the Turn Verein society, a composition by Kreutzes, which was passably rendered.

Not having space to go into details, we will speak as brief as possible.

The second number on the programme, the duett from Lucia, was sung by Mad. Werner and Mr. McCrystal in fine style, and showed the finished artist in every note of this most beautiful and difficult composition. The voices of these two favorites blend in such a manner that it is a great pleasure to listen to them.

Mrs. E. A. Adler sang a song from the Prophet in a very feeling manner, and received the plaudits of the audience. A solo by Kucken was beautifully rendered by Mrs. I. Haas. This lady made her first appearance on an Atlanta stage and we trust to hear her soon again in our concert rooms. The piano solo, by that really gifted musician, Madam Mary Madden, introduced Wagner's selections from Lohengrin, Chapin's waltz in G flat, and the spinning song by Mendelssohn. It is unnecessary to say that the rendition was a finished piece of playing, and reflects great credit on the talented performer.

A very pleasing part of the programme was the duett di concerto between Messrs. Schane and Wurm, who were rewarded by a hearty encore.

The prayer and aria from Freischutz, by Madam Annie Simon Werner, was, without doubt, the gem of the evening, and to an encore this lady sang the kiss song by Proch. Mr. McCrystal being indisposed, did not sing the solo "Qui Lastiamo" but appeared to advantage in the closing quartette from Rigoletti, with Madam Werner, Mrs. Adler and Mr. Spiro.

Mr. F. L. Freyer played with masterly skill the difficult concerto for violin by De Beriot, and was recalled by a very enthusiastic applause.

Madam Mary Madden played all the accompaniments for the singers in splendid style.

A Live Man.

Augusta Evening News.

The North Georgia fair association, of Atlanta, of which mention was made once before this week, is destined to be a success in every way. It is officered and manned by some of the best schemers and financiers in the state, and as a monetary investment is bound to bring a handsome return to each stockholder. Mr. B. W. Wrenn, the livellest railroad agent in the state, is a candidate for secretary of the association, and a better selection cannot be made. By all means make Wrenn the secretary, as he has more experience in such matters and will put more life into the association than half a dozen ordinary men.

A Popular House.

Although C. C. Brunner & Son only opened in Atlanta about two months ago, their house is already one of the most popular corners in the city. They keep always a full line of the best hats, umbrellas, gents furnishing goods, etc., at No. 32 Whitehall street. On the first Mr. Cap Joyner went with the house and he will be pleased to meet all his friends there. The boys will always find Cap.

Early Blooms.

On yesterday Mr. Fletcher Thompson, of this county, brought us the first cotton bloom we have heard of in Fulton. He brought with it the stalk, which is eighteen inches high, and has sixteen squares on it. In planting his cotton he used a home made compost.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Without the solicitation or knowledge of Mr. McCrystal, but from a fear only of a misapprehension of my apology to the audience of the omission of his solo, I desire to say that the services of Mr. McCrystal were in constant demand while in Charleston. He could not avoid singing day and night while there, returned too late for much practicing here, and did not feel that he was "in voice" Monday night. The ovation he received in Charleston was so well known that I thought the words 'Charleston trip" would be an ample explanation to the audience. C. C. GUILFORD.
